U. S.-RUSSIAN FAMINE RELIEF SIGNED TODAY

(By Associated Press)

Riga, Latvia, Aug. 20.—The agreement between the United States and Russia, providing for American Relief for famine stricken Russia was signed at 11.30 this morning by Walter Lyman Brown, European representative of the American Relief Administration, and Maxim Litvinoff of the Russian Famine Committee.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The agreement signed at Riga gives the Soviet leaders the right to expel the Russian personnel of the American Relief Administration, but not the American officials, or relief workers, Secretary Hoover said today. The Relief Administration have volunteered however to recall their workers in the event of unwarranted political activity.

HAYS TO SAFEGUARD REGISTERED MAIL

Washington, Aug. 19.—Postmaster General Hays has directed that valuable registered mail be afforded every possible safeguard against depredation while in the custody of the postal service.

To that end he has directed that, where practicable, at first and second-class postoffices, a delivery and receiving "cage," or ante-room to the registry section, properly enclosed, be provided, in which mail can be safely exchanged with railway postal clerks or postal employes. He has directed that at the larger postoffices a system of "call bells" should be installed to permit communication with the mailing and other sections of the office for the purpose of summoning assistance whenever necessary.

NEBRASKA WOMAN IS NAMED BY HARDING

Washington, Aug. 19.—Grace Abbott of Nebraska was nominated today by President Harding to be chief of the children's bureau.

Miss Abbott will succeed Miss Julia C. Lathrop of Rockford, Ill. The children's bureau of the labor department is charged with the duty of investigating and reporting on all matters relating to child welfare throughout the country.

SCHOONER SINKS AT ROCKLAND WHARF

Rockland, Me., Aug. 19.—Five men barely had time to scramble onto McLoon's wharf early today when the fishing sloop Minerva sank without warning and from an unknown cause.

ABSENT REPUBLICAN SENATORS SUMMONED BACK TO WASHINGTON

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, Aug. 20.—All absent Republican Senators have been summoned back today by Senator Curtis of Kansas, known as the Republican whip. He expected there would be no change in the pre-recess program but it was "necessary to have a full working quorum." Senator Lodge announced that there would be no recess until the farm legislation before the House had been enacted.

William Smith of Gloucester who escaped with practically no clothing, made his way to the police station in a very much exhausted condition.

The sloop, owned by Captain Charles Jordan and C. N. Trefethen of Portland, came in for a harbor yesterday with 3,000 pounds of fresh fish. Captain Jordan said that when he and the other, four men were aroused shortly after four o'clock, there was four feet of water over the stern and it was rushing into the companionway to the forecastle. The underwriters were notified of the mishap.

SAYS FRANK GOULD WILL MARRY AGAIN

New York, Aug. 19.—A declaration that Frank J. Gould intended to marry again soon was made today by his former wife, Edith Kelly Gould, in an application for permission to change attorneys in her divorce action against him in American courts.

The petition was granted.

It made known Mrs. Gould's intention of appealing to the United States supreme court, if necessary, from the recent court decision holding that Mr. Gould's Paris divorce was valid and that she had no standing here on which to bring divorce proceedings. Her new attorneys declared the case established a precedent and would determine the validity of divorces granted to Americans in foreign countries.

It was stated that an appeal must be made at once, as Mr. Gould intended remarrying.

SOME BUSY IN THE PARK

A Virginia editor threatened to publish the name of a certain young man who was seen hugging and kissing a girl in the park unless his subscription to the paper was paid up in a week. Fifty-nine young men called and paid up the next day, while two even paid a year in advance.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Reduction of the officer personnel of the Naval Reserve to one-half has ben ordered by the Navy department as a retrenchment measure. All warrant officers in the Reserve have been done away with.

WHY NOT HAVE A HANDTUB PLAYOUT

Why not add some feature to the celebration to take place in this city on the day when the State Firemen's Relief Association meets in convention. Why not a handtub contest between the local tub Eureka and the Senator Baxter of Bath, formerly the T. W. Priest of this city. This would certainly be some contest and be quite a drawing card as the rivalry between the two crews is at high pitch. If the Baxter would not come here and meet the local veterans, let the Eureka issue a challenge to some fast tubs in this vicinity and give us a little fun for that day.

BERGDOLL HAS PASSPORT, FLEES TO SWITZERLAND

Geneva, Aug. 19.—Grover C. Bergdoll, American draft evader, says the Thorgovie Zeitung, arrived in Constance from Munich three days ago and now is stopping in a hotel at St. Gall. Bergdoll came from Germany to avoid extradition to the United States, the newspaper asserts. He has an American passport, it adds, and now is perfectly safe from extradition.

GREAT BRITAIN ACCEPTS U. S. INVITATION

Will Participate in Conference on Far Eastern and Disarmament Questions.

(By Associated Press)

London, Aug. 20.—Great Britain's formal acceptance of the official invitation of President Harding to participate in the Conference on Far Eastern Disarmament questions to be held in Washington in November has been forwarded from here today.

MAKES ATTEMPT TO EXPLAIN ACTS SOVIET LEADERS

Riga, Latvia.—Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevik War Minister in Russia, attempted to explain to the delegates composing the recent congress of the Third Internationale at Moscow the seeming contradiction in the acts of the Soviet leaders who are restoring a limited measure of capitalism in Russia while advocating in speeches to the Internationale, the abolition of capital elsewhere.

The Pravda quotes Trotzky as saying that compromises with capitalism were justifiable in Russia as the dictatorship of the proletariat has been firmly established there, but that no compromises were allowable to Reds attempting to bring about revolution elsewhere.

The official Bolshevik viewpoint, as expressed in speeches by Lenine and in their various newspapers, is that all changes being made in Russia, all concessions being granted to capital and all seeming digressions from a strict Communist policy are either made necessary by the poor economic condition of the country or are essential to permit Communism to exist in the future.

The disastrous economic condition in Russia was frankly admitted in speeches at the Congress by various Russian delegates. Trotzky is quoted as having told the delegates that "it is easy to be a Communist if one looks only at the cheering picture of red flags at the Internationale, but the true Communist is he who can still be one and look upon Moscow's starving children."

Zinovieff in his closing speech to the conference, as reported in the Isvestia, said that in 1917 everybody "laughed at us, considered us dreamers." The first Internationale congress, he said, was attended by only a handful. The second was more important. The third he said, has shown that despite all difficulties, the Third Internationale will be most powerful even in America.

While permitting of some exceptions, such as temporarily at least allowing the American I. W. W. to continue as an independent organization, the Internationale congress decided that the revolutionary idea must be fought for through existing trade unions, such as the American Federation of labor. All small organizations not affiliated with the large trade unions were requested to "liquidate themselves," their members being instructed to unite with labor unions and win them over to Communism.

The conference decided upon undying warfare against the so-called Amsterdam Internationale, which includes trade unions working for socialism, but not for the dictatorship of the proletariat.

BEATEN AND ROBBED BY THREE BANDITS

Lawrence, Aug. 20.—James Garopolis 23, of 387 Essex street, a waiter in a local restaurant, appeared at work at the usual hour yesterday with his face badly battered and his body covered with bruises. He said he was held up by three highwaymen on the Lowell boulevard at Methuen at an early hour and after being beaten into insensibility was robbed of $25 in cash. A valuable gold watch and a diamond ring worth about $150 were overlooked.

Garopolis had been to Manchester, N. H., and had ridden from there to Lowell and then to Merrimack park, Methuen, by jitney. He was obliged to walk from the latter place to this city. When a short distance from the armory he declares he was set upon by three men.

SEVERAL INJURED WHEN MOB STORMED COUNTY JAIL

Negro Held in Connection With Criminal Assault on Tennessee School Teacher

(By Associated Press)

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 20.—Quiet prevailed in the vicinity of the Knox County Jail today after a clash yesterday between the guards and deputies and a crowd that demanded a negro held in connection with a criminal assault on a county school teacher. Twenty-six were wounded, six of them seriously during an exchange of shots which occurred when a mob composed of about 200 men and boys tried to get beyond the "dead line." Although the shots were discharged above the heads of the crowd more than a score of persons who were viewing the second jail assault on the grounds above the court house, were injured. According to Sheriff Cate the first shot was fired from the crowd and was answered by a deputy who discharged a shot gun above the heads of the crowd. Members of the crowd then responded by firing revolvers toward the jail but fortunately none of the guards were hurt.

WOULD RESULT IN BELFAST BOYCOTT

(By Associated Press)

Belfast, Ireland, Aug. 20.—Interviews printed here attributed to Alderman MacDonagh of Dublin, the statement that the Dail Eireann, designed to bring Northern Ireland peaceably to what the Sinn Fein would desire. This would result in the complete shutting off of goods from Belfast for Southern Ireland, and the boycott would grow more rigid every day. Alderman MacDonagh is quoted as saying that this will give Belfast a kind of position it does not want. One of the rabid politicians has stated in a speech that Belfast is the Gibralter of England in Ireland, and so long as this attitude is indulged in it is the duty of all Ireland to make it as barren as the rock itself.

HARDING TO RETAIN TRAINED DIPLOMATS

Washington, Aug. 19.—The diplomatic service will not be made a haven for politicians. This assurance was given at the White House today with the announcement that men who have grown up in the service will be retained, although not necessarily at any specific post.

The principal diplomatic appointment of the Administration, that of Col. Harvey to Great Britain, was political, in that he had no previous diplomatic experience and was closely associated with the President during the campaign. With the posts yet unfilled, most of which are legations, the men now in service will have the preference. In this connection the case of Joseph C. Grew, minister to Denmark, was cited. It was stated that he is as sure to stay in the service as Mr. Harding is to be President until March, 1925.

The difficulty in filling out the diplomatic list arises because of peculiar limitations. The President cannot transfer an Ambassador or a Minister from one post to another. He must make an appointment in each instance. This means that the Nation in which the diplomat will represent the United States must be consulted before action is taken. Others in the diplomatic service can be transferred by the Executive at pleasure.

MACMILLAN HITS LAST SUPPLY POST

Augusta, Me., Aug. 20.—Gov. Percival P. Baxter yesterday received a letter from Capt. Donal B. MacMillan, who is on an expedition to Baffin Land. When the schooner Bowdoin started out from Wiscasset, Capt. MacMillan promised to send word to Gov. Baxter when he reached the last outpost of civilization.

"After several interesting experiences we have reached what may be called our last outpost of civilization," says Capt. MacMillan. "I have taken on our last provisions and fresh water and am now awaiting weather to clear before proceeding northward to Hopedale, the first Eskimo settlement, where I hope to add to my personnel a good Eskimo boy.

"It is two above freezing here today with many icebergs in sight, but no drift ice to bother us on the coast according to wireless reports.

"The Bowdoin is proving to be a wonderful sea boat. Had her going the other day with sea rail and foreigging dipping every wave. Was a bit anxious about my main boom, which was bending like rubber, but she came through all right.

She is now nuzzling at her lines and wants to start. If I possibly can I shall send mail down by the western coast to Hudson bay by dog team after we are frozen in in winter quarters.

"I want to thank you again for your great kindness and your great in our expedition. I will not forget it. I wish you the greatest success in your present office."

Gov. Baxter hopes to be the first one to greet MacMillan when he returns home from the north next summer and promised him that he would be on hand if MacMillan would send him a wireless.

STOCK MARKET

(By Associated Press)

Wall Street, Aug. 20.—Shipping, oil equipment and motors were under further liquidation at the opening of the stock market this morning.

More records were established in the course of today's stock market than have been for some time. Among the seizures was Pierce Arrow, common and preferred, U. S. Rubber and American Linseed had extreme losses of one to four points.

QUIET PREVAILS AT BARNSTABLE

Troops Retire From Barnstable Jail; No Further Trouble Expected.

(By Associated Press)

Barnstable, Mass., Aug. 20.—The night passed without incident at the county jail here, where yesterday a mob threatened to seize and lynch three negroes held for criminal assault on a young white woman, and further demonstration is considered unlikely, according to Sheriff Irving L. Rosenthal in charge of the prisoners. Twenty national guards armed with machine guns remained at the jail during the night. The rumor that negroes were forming parties to rescue the prisoners prompted calling for state troops and 100 artillery men were sent from the second field camp at West Barnstable. Outposts were established one half mile in each direction from the jail, but this morning 80 men returned to camp. Each of the negroes is held in $16,000 for the hearing which will be held August 29. They refuse to discuss the crime with which they are charged, and are kept in widely separated parts of the jail. The usual guard of two men has been increased to fifteen, armed with shot guns and ten members of the State Police Patrol equipped with motor cycles who are camped nearby and ready for immediate action.

The last of the state troops called out to guard the three negro prisoners charged with criminal assault were withdrawn today. Things have quieted down to such an extent that Sheriff Irving L. Rosenthal and members of the augmented jail guard went to their homes for a few hours sleep. They had been on duty since early Friday morning.

VETERAN FIREMEN STILL HAVE SOME PEP

The Franklin Pierce Veteran Firemen are by no means discouraged by their defeat at Salem on Saturday last. They believe that the handtub Eureka will yet deliver the goods and they expect to go on the firin line once or twice more before the season is over. The Vets believe the old saying "You can't keep good men down." They still have some pep.

VETERAN OVERCOMES HANDICAP

Chicago.—To Corporal Christen Poulsen of the United States Marines, his discharge from an army hospital in February 1919, meant beginning life anew—the life of a blind man. In two years time, he has completed that readjustment and today Poulsen is in the fuel and feed business in Chicago, does a full day's work every day and, with the aid of his wife, is taking a correspondence course in business management.

Poulsen was with the Sixth Regiment of the Marines when a few thousand troops were chosen from the vanguard of the American Army to help block the German advance on Paris in June 1918. The Sixth Marines gave their aid to the allies, but among those who were left on the battlefield was Corporal Poulsen, fully conscious, but bleeding and sightless from the burst of a high explosive shell. Poulsen was wounded just one year to a day from the date he enlisted. He has been totally blind ever since.

Following his discharge from the army hospital, Poulsen entered Everegreen, the Red Cross School for the Blind, in Baltimore. There he took courses in typewriting, Braille, English, Civics and learned to make small useful articles. He was getting $80 a month from his War Risk Insurance but wanted to earn his own living in addition.

A year later his father offered to give him work in his feed store in Chicago. Young Poulsen entered the office and began to learn to take orders and direct deliveries. Today he is a full partner in his father's business. Now he feels that he needs still further technical training in business and has begun a correspondence course under the Federal Board for Vocational Education. He is studying this course in his spare time with the aid of his wife, whom he married last year and who now acts as his reader.

KITTERY

Kittery, Aug. 20.—Chaplain Charlton, U. S. N., will be the speaker at the Second Methodist tomorrow morning at 11.00, and at 7.30 o'clock a stereopticon lecture will be given by W. H. C. Foster entitled the "Six O'Clock Whistle." Both services promise to be very helpful and inspiring and should be well attended. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend. If you are not in the habit of attending church, go to both services at the Second Methodist church on Sunday.

At the Second Christian church on Sunday Rev. M. L. Everett, the pastor, will speak on the subject "Dead to Sin and Alive to Christ." In the evening will be held a union of the two services, in charge of the Christian Endeavor society, and Leo Young will deliver the address of Dr. Clark, president of the National Christian Endeavor Society, which he gave at the recent New York convention; also Dr. Poling's address as delivered at the convention. A cordial welcome extended to all who attend these services.

TWO NEW SCIENCES FOR PARIS STUDENTS

Paris.—Poroscopy and Graphometry are two new "sciences" intended to make the way of the transgressor harder than it is. Poroscopy is the science of measuring the pores of the body. Graphometry is the science of form and relative proportion of letters in handwriting.

Dr. Edmond Locard, head of the Lyons police laboratory of identification has elaborated these new methods of crime detection to a point where the results have been accepted in the Lyons courts and are said to have been proved effective.

In poroscopy, Dr. Locard holds the number, form and position of body pores remain the same throughout life. The impression of the pores in Dr. Locard's system is colored by chemical vapors or very fine powders so they may be photographed under a microscope.

Dr. Locard tells of several successful prosecutions supported by his new sciences. In one case a burglar wore gloves but left an impression of a small surface of forearm. That trace convicted him. Another burglar, perspiring freely, left the impression of pore surfaces through his gloves and went to jail.

Graphometry, as termed by Dr. Locard, consists primarily in the theory that handwriting shows always a certain relation in size between letters and unmistakable characteristics in form, particularly of loops. In addition to these principles, Dr. Locard, of course, utilizes generally accepted methods of directing forgeries.

PEPPERRELL COVE

Pepperrell Cove, Aug. 20.—Senator Fred Smalley invites us to Walpole August 25, when the Panama Grange will hold a Field Day on his farm. We regret we cannot attend for we know the senator will give everybody a good time.

Gov. Brown will be there and we think we will go and prod many whom we know, including many of the senators and representatives.

Enforcing Blue Laws at Freeport, Me.—On complaint of the Rev. Joseph Purilo, who recently was fined for keeping open a store on Sunday and appealed, seven storekeepers will appear in court Saturday morning on a similar charge. Two are druggists, one a newsdealer and four are keepers of wayside stores. This is said to be the first serious attempt to enforce the "Blue laws" in this town for many years.

Prohibition has affected the restaurant business. Once was a time when the man took a few drinks and did not care what he ate, but now he wants a square meal. Every one we see tells the same story. Down our way everybody makes home brew. So instead of the breweries making the beer the people themselves make it.

It will take another Solomon to solve the great question of prohibition as the people themselves will solve it. A law that is unpopular can never be enforced, whether it is short lobsters or near beer.

YORK BEACH

York Beach, Aug. 20.—One of the most interesting corporation meetings in the history of York is promised for next month when the voters get together to elect officers for the ensuing year and decide several important questions regarding next spring's improvements.

It is expected that the taxpayers of York will also remain over for several days after the season officially closes in order to recommend certain improvements. The meeting will be called early in order that as many of the out of town taxpayers as possible may attend.

The old board of assessors will be up for re-election. The taxpayers would like to see them returned, according to one of the older residents who has watched with interest the campaign to make York a city. Other town officers will be selected at this session and questions of permanent improvements will be discussed.

The warrant will be one of the lengthiest that York voters have read in years. Suggestions which have been made from time to time by property owners and summer visitors will be placed before the voters for their sanction. The traffic conditions at the beach will receive considerable attention and it is very possible that the voters may decide to increase the police force or change its present status. The suggested improvements of the water front will come up for a big share of the discussion. It is the intention of the taxpayers to get together before the corporation meeting and decide on the method of procedure to make York the most beautiful resort on the coast.

"I want to commend the action of Assessor R. F. Chalk for his stand during the past season," said a prominent hotel proprietor who has been in York over twenty years.

"He has certainly improved conditions and by his alertness has kept the beach clean. At one time it looked as if York was to become a second Coney Island with bathers costumed in flimsy bathing suits which left nothing to the imagination. Mr. Chalk by his persistent method of patrolling the beach morning and afternoon, warning at first and then ordering the violators from the sands, has accomplished wonderful results. I hope that he will be able to continue his work next season.

"York has certainly experienced a big change over past years. There was a time when scores of young people walked the streets, loitered about the postoffice and waited at the station for friends in their bathing suits. This has been done away with. The practice of grouping the beach in continuous more fitted for a burlesque show of the cheaper type has passed out, because of the vigilance of the assessors.

"Today the summer residents can take their children down on the sands and know that the conditions will be beneficial rather than detrimental to their young minds. And they appreciate it. The officials are anxious to have every taxpayer present at the corporation meeting in order to outline plans for the summer of 1922.

Louis A. Dozois of Manchester, who is summering at the beach with his family, stated yesterday that he had not as yet received official notification of his re-appointment to the Manchester police commission. It is expected to arrive soon and Mr. Dozois told a correspondent that he would accept. The commissioner has been a summer resident of York for a number of years and is well known at the resort.

York Harbor is entertaining many prominent artists at the present time. Elaine Hammerstein, the popular movie actress, is at the Harbor for the remainder of the season. Mrs. Ethel Hueston, the authoress, and her daughter of San Diego, Cal., are at the Albanna for the month of August. Henry Driscoll and party left in their private car, "Manhattan" for Saratoga, N. Y., where they will remain until Sunday.

Assessor R. F. Chalk and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Chalk of York were recent visitors at Alton Bay where they attended a family reunion.

Miss Gladys Bowden of Manchester is visiting with her sister, Mrs. George Mitchell.

Mrs. Lilla Eames of Portsmouth was a recent visitor at the beach, the guest of Miss Elsie Muxson.

Mrs. N. C. Simonds of Hooksett, a former resident of York, is the guest of Mrs. R. V. Freeman.

J. Warrent Pickering of Portsmouth was a recent visitor at the beach.

Commodore James Anderson is planning to have the club quarters painted during the next week in preparation of the coming social activities.

William Starr of Manchester is enjoying the sea breezes of York.

A car load of dirt was brought by one of the freight cars of the Atlantic Shore Line railway and placed between the docks near the square. Fifteen minutes after the job had been completed there was a small sized cloudburst which practically wiped out the new allotment of dirt.

Stuart Chase, who was injured when a bolt of lightning entered Chase's garage where he was working, was reported by Dr. George Packard of Manchester as improving.

An old fashioned barn dance at the local hall brought out several hundred people last night.

HAS IT EVER HAPPENED?

"You salary will be increased $5 a week the first of next month."

"You are half an hour late but never mind. You worked an hour overtime last night, I believe."

"We have concluded to give you a month's vacation on pay this coming summer, instead of the customary two weeks."—San Francisco Chronicle.

N. Y. NARROW PIERS A BIG DETRIMENT

New York.—Railroads entering New York pull a carload of freight 400 miles for the same money they charge to handle it on a barge or lighter in New York harbor, a distance of about ten miles, says J. J. Mantell of the Erie Railroad.

An explanation of this cost was given by Mr. Mantell recently to the members council of the New York Merchant's Association. He said that the great volume of freight handling in the port of New York—50 percent of the total import and export traffic of the United States—requires the maintenance by the railroads of a vast amount of floating equipment, representing an investment of $16,000,000.

Because New York's narrow piers were planned and built 40 or more years ago and were intended for the old type of sailing vessel or steamer, he said, barges and lighters require from seven to eight days to make deliveries. During the war, from ten to eleven days were required.

"An Interstate Commerce Commissioner once described the New York traffic conditions," Mr. Mantell added, "as 'the sore spot' of the nation."

RYE

Rye, Aug. 20.—Locke's Pavilion not only attracts many summer guests but many residents of near by places. It is a most attractive place and here daily are many parties who much enjoy the place and its environments.

Friday was another wonderful night at the beach and many were there to enjoy seeing the full moon rise. Numerous bon fires were seen along the sands and some of the young people were having a merry time toasting marshmallows or cooking frankfurts over the fire.

A CHALLENGE TO THE POSTMASTERS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

A few days ago the postmasters of Colorado sent a challenge to the postmasters of New Hampshire, through John T. Wayland, Government director, Savings Division, Tenth Federal Reserve District, to a contest in the sale of Government Savings securities between the two states, to end on November 30, 1921. This challenge was promptly accepted on behalf of the postmasters of New Hampshire by F. C. Ayres, Government director, Savings Division, First Federal Reserve District, after consultation with Mr. George E. Farrand, Postmaster at Concord.

It seems hardly possible that Colorado can hope to compete with the well known thrift and savings which has made the old "Granite State" what it is. Both states are founded on rocks, and Colorado it must be admitted has the advantage of having some of the most valuable minerals in the world in their rock. The people of the "Granite State" have their granite, to be sure, but in value it cannot compare with the precious metals that are found in abundance in Colorado.

However that may be, the people of our own state early learned the necessity for thrift, economy and an eye to the future. The early conditions in the state required it, and the fact that New Hampshire has stood in the forefront of the Savings movement instituted by the United States Government during and since the war now shows the value of this early training.

In transmitting this challenge to the postmasters of New Hampshire Mr. Ayres has sent the following letter:

"A few days ago I received the following telegram from Mr. John T. Wayland, Government Savings director of the Tenth Federal Reserve District, with headquarters at Kansas City:—

"Colorado challenges New Hampshire to contest in sale of Savings securities, said contest ending November 30. Wire Answer.

"This suggestion came as a complete surprise to me and I hardly knew what answer to make. However, after consulting with Mr. George E. Farrand, Postmaster at Concord, I decided to accept the challenge.

"According to the latest reports I have Colorado had a per capita average on May 31 of $186, and a total sale for the five months of $166,414; on the same date New Hampshire had a per capita average of 23c and a total sale of $100,235.

"As long as we have entered this contest I want to use every means to beat our western friends, but the burden of the effort naturally falls on you. I know you will be only too glad to do everything possible to uphold the prestige of your state in the sale of Government Savings securities and win the challenge."

A blank sheet has been enclosed with the letter addressed to the postmasters of Colorado, which Mr. Ayres asked to be filled in with any individual replies which the postmasters of New Hampshire wish to make. Replies to this letter are now coming in to the district office in Boston and will be published in our next edition. The postmasters of Colorado are sure to get the surprise of their lives.

It will be interesting to follow this contest as it progresses, and inasmuch as it is not only for the welfare of the people but also of our government we heartily endorse the movement. Let's all go to it and show our western friends what the good old "Granite State" can do.

BOYS AND GIRLS MAKING TOYS IN OUTDOOR SHOP

Boston.—Hundreds of boys and girls of the Mary Hemingway public school in the Dorchester district have gone into competition with Santa Claus in an open air workshop here and Christmas time will find their handiwork scattered in many gift packages.

With work benches set up under fragrant fir trees in a natural park on Lonsdale street, the youngsters whittle and saw away making toys, furniture and unique gewgaws out of any material that comes to hand.

Toy ducks, horses and pigs or tanks, soldiers, chairs, dolls, guns, and airships—all are products of the expert hands of these young enthusiasts. Even the refuse logs furnish material. A sardine can becomes a cooky cutter, a salmon can shapes into a cruller cutter, and beer bottle tops make excellent caps for the soldiers. A jig-saw in the hands of a capable youngster produces a monkey on a trapeze that rolls around like a performer in a circus.

Chair caning is a fascinating job and mothers old arm chair gets many a new seat.

Work is carried on from nine until four under the supervision of Miss L. Gertrude Howes with two manual training teachers to show the student how to manipulate the tools. A house that is used for a bad weather shop has been equipped with furniture made by the children.

Do Your Coal Buying Early

There was no coal shortage last year—there was a coal panic. This was due to misleading reports as to the availability of the supply. It is under panic conditions that you suffer. There is plenty of coal produced this year, but if a great part of the demand comes all at once, somebody has to wait. You can help yourself and the situation generally by ordering coal early. There can be no reduction in price, so long as the cost of mining (which is mainly labor) is at the present high levels. And coal mining wages have been fixed under an official award of a Government Wage Board until April 1 of next year.

CONGRESS HOLDS UP WOOD BILL IN PHILIPPINES

Washington, Aug. 19—The Administration bill designed to authorize Major General Leonard Wood to become governor general of the Philippines without retiring as an active officer of the Army was laid on the table today by the House Military Committee without a record vote. Committeemen were said to have held it would be a dangerous precedent to establish.

Practically all committee members were reported to have favored tabling the measure, which makes it certain that the bill will not come to a vote in the House.

No criticism of General Wood was expressed at the committee session, it was said members agreeing that he would make an excellent governor and should accept President Harding's offer. The opinion was reported to be equally general, however, that it would be a dangerous precedent to permit Army Officers to accept civilian posts without first resigning their commissions. General Wood, it is argued, should retire from the Army if he wished to accept the island post.

CORN AND OATS PRICES LOWEST IN MANY YEARS

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Corn figures touched the lowest figures today—51-5-8 cents a bushel—since 1908 or 1909. Oats September to $1.16 and then came a moderate rally 1906. Wheat options were within 1 3-4 to 3 cents of the season's low mark. September sold at $1.16 a bushel. Wheat prices, opening quotations, varied from unchanged figures to 1-2 cent higher, with September, $1.16 3-4 to $1.17 and December $1.16 3-4 to $1.17 and December, $1.17 1-2@18. A moderate setback brought September to $1.13 and came a moderate rally.

Corn after opening 7-8 off to 3-8 higher including September at 52@-2 cents underwent a general sag, touching 51 5-8. Oats started 1-8 to 3-8 cents lower with September at 32 cents—the low point—and December at 35 1-2@3-8.

Absence of buying weakened provisions.

B. & M. CLERK HELD FOR FORGERY

Biddeford, Me., Aug. 19—Walter M. Harman, aged about 40, Boston & Maine billing clerk, arrested yesterday in connection with the discounting of a number of notes in banks in this city and in Saco, some indorsers of which claim that their names were forged, was arraigned in the local Police Court this morning.

Harman, through his counsel, pleaded not guilty and waived a hearing. Probable cause was found and the respondent was bound over to the Grand Jury in the sum of $2000.

RUSSIAN RELIEF AGREEMENT TO BE SIGNED

(By Associated Press)

Riga, Latvia, Aug. 19—Walter Lyman Brown, for the United States, and Maxim Litinoff, for Soviet Russia, agreed this afternoon to sign tomorrow the detailed contracts for American relief for the Russian famine, on terms granting the Americans extreme freedom of movement and absolute control of the food distribution.

BEER FLOOD CUTS LOOSE

Montreal, Aug. 18—The ruling of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon that liquor may be shipped from one country to another through the United States resulted today in the movement southward of many thousands of gallons of beer. The shipments mainly are consigned to the West Indies, the Guianas, Central and South American countries. The beer had been held up owing to the interpretation of the prohibition law by Former Attorney General Palmer, who ruled that shipments consigned from one country to another and intended to pass through the United States, violated the prohibition law.

TWO SISTERS GET HELP

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it did for Them

Hagerstown, Md.—"I was overworked and my monthly periods stopped. My body was swollen and I often had pains so I had to lie down. I was treated by a physician, but he did not seem to help me at all. My sister had taken your medicine with great results so I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am able to work and feel like working. I have be a recommending your medicine to my friends, and you are welcome to use my testimonial for I can never praise your medicine enough for what it has done for me."—RHODA E. CARBAUGH, R. R. 1, Hagerstown, Md.

Women will tax their powers of endurance to the limit before giving up, and it is then some womanly ailment develops and they have to give up entirely. When a woman suffers from such symptoms as irregularities, headaches, backaches, bearing-down pains, inflammation, nervousness and "the blues," it is well for her to profit by Mrs. Carbaugh's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has restored multitudes of women suffering from just such ailments.

GOOD ROADS MUST WAIT

Washington, Aug. 18.—Expenditure of $100,000,000 from the Treasury of the United States when the business of the country is suffering from depression and the industrial fabric is dislocated, cannot be justified, Senator Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts declared in the Senate Wednesday in opposing passage of the "good roads" bill. Senator Lodge referred to industrial distress in New England and asserted that it is the duty of Congress to make every effort to reduce Government expenditures and thus make a substantial contribution towards a return to normal conditions.

Senator Lodge said: "I am as cordially in favor of good roads in the United States and appreciate their importance to the country as much as anyone. But this is a time when we should not take a great sum of money from the Treasury and add largely to our appropriations without very careful consideration.

In order to restore prosperity we must come back to a normal economic condition as quickly as possible. Great economic forces are at work which no laws can arrest or turn aside, but it is possible for the Government, through Congress and the Executive, to smooth the path for the return to normal conditions or by mistaking legislation to create fresh obstacles and make real recovery slower and more uncertain. One helpful thing that the Government can do in this situation is to bring some relief from the great burden of taxation, which is retarding the restoration of business prosperity and with business prosperity goes employment for all our people and better prices for our farmers and all our great agricultural interests.

"We have had, owing to the war, years of reckless expenditure. We are confronting a legacy of disorganization and debt, which we must meet, and one of the first steps to be taken is rigid economy. The executive and Congress together can at least stop waste.

"I do not for a moment suggest that money expended for good roads is a waste. It does not come under that head, far from it. But it certainly is one of those fields of public expenditure where there can be delay without serious injury."

A number of fall social events are already being planned for.

WANT MONEY TO FIGHT PINE RUST

Washington, Aug. 19—Strenuous efforts will be made by New England interests and those of other northern states to secure from Congress an appropriation of $300,000 to fight the white pine blister rust which is seriously imperilling the trees in the upper tier of states. The matter was made the subject of a conference today between Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and a group representing the forestry interests of the North. It is said unofficially that Mr. Wallace is prepared to request of Congress an appropriation of $200,000. But practical foresters fear that this sum will prove insufficient.

Among those composing the party which visited Secretary Wallace today are: H. A. Reynolds, chairman of the Massachusetts Forestry Association; S. T. Dana, state forester of Maine; J. H. Foster, state forester of New Hampshire; J. G. Ililey, representing the state forester of Vermont; R. H. Allen, chief of the bureau of plant industry of Massachusetts; H. A. Sheals, assistant state entomologist; W. O. Filey state forester of Connecticut; A. F. Amidon, representing the conservation commission of New York; S. B. Fracker, state entomologist of Wisconsin, and K. J. Braden, representing the state forester and state entomologist of Minnesota.

BROCKTON TO PAY $34.90 TAX RATE

Brockton, Aug. 19—The tax rate for this city, as announced today from the office o fthe assessors, is $34.90, an increase of $1 over last year.

The total valuation this year is $62,520,551, while it was $60,250,361 in 1920.

Nearly 700 poll tax payers have been lost from this year's list, the number being now 17,998, lack of business activity is thought to have been the reason for the large loss.

OFFER TO OFFSET HOOVER

Riga, Aug. 17—The International Red Cross has offered to assist in Russian famine relief work in a memorandum presented to Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet envoy here of the Soviet Government, by a delegation including representatives of the Red Cross, the League of Nations and the Interallied Credits Association. Litvinoff said he had the authorization of Nikolai Lenine, the Soviet premier to deal with the proposal.

The International Red Cross desires to aid Russia by permitting much greater control in the distribution of relief supplies by the Bolsheviki than the American relief administration is willing to grant. E. A. Frick, Swiss agent of the International Red Cross, and Mr Garvin of the Interallied Credits Association called on Walter L. Brown, European director of the American plans. Mr Brown as yet has not received word from Washington.

Neither Litvinoff nor Frick would give out a copy of the memorandum presented to Litvinoff, but it was said that a conference had been proposed to discuss direct famine aid through the International Red Cross, together with credits to the Bolsheviki for famine and through the organization of Mr. Garvin. It is expected the conference will take place Saturday, either at Riga or Reval.

Litvinoff declared this offer would not affect American aid, as Russia could accept both, as well as the help of many more organizations.

TOO MANY APPLICANTS FOR PHILLIPS-EXETER

Exeter.—Hundreds of applicants for admission to the Phillips Exeter academy have been turned down, and it is safe to predict that fully as many will be refused as gain admission. If all were admitted the enrollment when the school opens in September would probably be about 1,300 students, which would make it next to Dartmouth in numbers.

Last year the total enrollment was 660, which was the largest in the history of the institution, founded in 1783, and the figures this year will probably exceed that number some, although the authorities are careful to keep the number below 700.

Approximately 650 students are all that can be taken care of with the present equipment, but in the future it will doubtless have facilities for a larger number.

The summer school, which began July 12 with attendance of 80 students, closes on Sept. 3, and the 139th year of the school commences Sept. 21.

One change of the faculty already announced is that of the appointment of Edwin S. W. Kerr, Princeton, '09, who succeeds Kenneth O. Myrick, as instructor in English.

BITS OF GOLF

Next week will be an interesting week of golf for this section. The first three days of the week the York Country Club championship will be played, the qualifying round of medal play having been held this forenoon, with match play next week. On Friday and Saturday the annual New Hampshire State Championship will be held at Nashua Country Club, with a large entry from this city. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday the annual tournament for the Studebaker Cup will be played at Abenaqui Golf Club at Rye Beach.

Whitney Bowden of New Orleans who is summering at the Wentworth has two legs on the Studebaker cup and he may become the permanent possessor of the cup next week, as he is playing a fine game.

The annual tournament at the Wentworth golf club was held this week with Bo Smith being played today. There is no more golf at the Wentworth this year than for many years past. The course which is in the process of alterations will greatly be improved by another season.

Several from this section witnessed the golf matches around Boston in which the two English professionals Abe Mitchell and George Duncan have been playing. They were all greatly impressed with the hitting power of Mitchell.

The Portsmouth Country Club which has had the greatest golf year in the history of the club, is planning a busy season for September. The usual Labor Day tournament will be omitted this year, on account of the big time the Masonic bodies are to hold in this city. The return match with the Intervale Club of Manchester, which will include the match for the Petree bowl will be played here on Saturday September 10. Two matches are scheduled with the Island Club of Haverhill, one at each club and a team match will probably be played with the Rochester Golf Club. On Columbus Day the annual club team match and supper will be held and this will conclude the tournaments for the season.

There was a large gallery of golfers following the exhibition match today at the Abenaqui golf club at Rye Beach between Francis Ouimet former open champion and one of the finest golfers the country had ever produced and Jesse Guilford, former N. H. State champion, and Massachusetts open and state champion, on one side and Louis Tellier of the Bren Mawr club and Gil Nichols unattached, on the other. The last named two are professionals who are past masters of the game, and the two amateurs will have to play fine golf to get a win. Eighteen holes were played this forenoon and eighteen this afternoon.

PROGRESS IN WELFARE WORK IN POSTAL DEPARTMENT

Washington.—Dr. Lee Frankel, Welfare Director of the Postoffice Department, is on a six weeks' tour of the leading postoffices of the country which will carry him to the Pacific coast. Dr. Frankel's visit is for the purpose of making inspection of working conditions of postoffice employees and sanitary conditions of buildings. Dr. Frankel's department was created by Postmaster General Hays in his campaign to humanize the postal service and to improve the working conditions of 300,000 postal employees. Dr. Frankel who had charge of the welfare work of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., is serving the postal department and the United States government without salary.

POWER BOAT CHAMPIONSHIP IN DETROIT

Detroit, Aug. 19.—The 1921 Harmsworth trophy race in the Detroit river here, Sept. 3 and 5 will be the eleventh contest for the international power boat championship title. It will be the fifth time the trophy has been contested for in American waters and the eighth time in which the United States has been a contender.

The trophy was offered in 1904 by Alfred Harmsworth, Lord Northcliffe, but did not attract American competition until 1907, when Commodore E. J. Schroeder, with his Dixie, brought it to America. Commodore Schroeder repeated his victory in 1908, with Dixie II over the Huntington Bay, New York, course. No races were held in 1909 nor during the war.

The history of the Harmsworth trophy races since 1907 shows that Americans have been victorious five times and that a steady development in speed has marked the contests since the first Dixie captured the trophy in that year. A speed of 23.03 miles an hour won the trophy in 1907, while Gar Wood drove his Miss America at the rate of 61.5 miles an hour to win in 1920.

When the war broke out in 1914 Commodore Pugh of Chicago was in Cowes, ready to contest with Sir Mackay Edgar's Maple Leaf V with his Disturber IV.

The course for the 1921 Harmsworth event measures five nautical miles and the distance is 40 nautical miles, or eight laps to the heat. The rules governing the contest require that the team, from any contending country, to consist of not more than three boats, must win two heats to take the trophy. The deed of gift provides that an individual boat need not win both heats.

Against Sir Mackay Edgar's Maple Leaf VII, five American boats have been nominated for the elimination trials that will determine the crew to defend the "B. I. T." as it is termed by powerboat men. The elimination trials will be held Sept. 1 and 2.

The nominees for the elimination races are Miss America II, Gar Wood's new defender; the first Miss America, owned by G. A. Wood, Jr., and entered by the Miss Detroit Powerboat Association; Volger Boy IV, owned by F. W. Volger of the Portland, Ore., Boat club; Miss Chicago, owned by Sheldon Clark of the Chicago Yacht Club, and Disturber IV, owned by P. G. Ericson and entered for the Chicago Yacht Club.

Sir Mackay's Maple Leaf VII entered for the Royal Motor Yacht Club, is the only craft to represent the challenging country.

The contest will be a battle of 12-cylinder engines, all the craft named for the event being equipped with power plants of this type. Both the Miss America II and the Maple Leaf VII have four 12-cylinder motors, while the others have one or two 12-cylinder engines.

Wood predicts a speed of 90 miles an hour from his new defender, while the challenger is said to have exceeded 80 miles an hour.

BERGDOLL AT CONSTANCE

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 19—Grover C. Bergdoll, American draft evader, says the Thorgovie Zeitung, has arrived in Constance from Munich three days ago and now is stopping in a hotel at St. Gall. Bergdoll came from Germany to avoid extradition to the United States, the newspaper asserts. He has an American passport, it adds, and now is perfectly safe from extradition.

SENATE CUTS $25,000,000 FROM GOOD ROADS BILL

Washington, Aug 19—By a vote of 28 to 22 the Senate today adopted an amendment to the Federal aid road bill reducing the amount from $100,000,000.

The bill appropriating $75,000,000, one-third of which will be available immediately, was then passed by the Senate.

Portsmouth, N. H., Saturday, August 20, 1921.

The Army of the Unemployed.

Somewhat sobering are the figures given out by Secretary of Labor Davis regarding unemployment at the present time. He estimates that the total number of unemployed throughout the country—without considering persons engaged in agricultural work—aggregate 5,735,000, divided as follows: Manufacturing and mechanical industries, 3,900,000; mining, 250,000; transportation, 800,000; trades and clerical, 450,000; domestic and personal service, 335,000. According to the figures the unemployed in New England are distributed as follows: Massachusetts, 243,582; Maine, 32,982; New Hampshire, 31,715; Vermont, 13,130; Rhode Island, 45,539; Connecticut, 90,840.

These figures are not pleasant to contemplate, particularly at this time of the year, but it is hoped there will be improvement in the fall and that the country will not have to go into the winter with such an army out of work. Secretary Davis points out that large numbers of women and girls who were employed in war work have returned to their homes since the beginning of curtailment and that these help to swell the grand total, but the situation is bad enough after making allowance for these workers, who without doubt are in most cases well provided for, even though they stand in the ranks of the unemployed for the time being.

The situation, while uncomfortable, is not difficult to understand. During the war all industries were rushed to capacity and there was work for all at high wages. Ever since the cessation of hostilities war work has been slackening and much of it has ceased entirely. And while the body of workers has been increased by the return of the soldiers there has been curtailment in most lines of industry in the process of getting back to a normal basis. Prices of most commodities have fallen, and business is never rushing on a falling market. It is generally believed that readjustment will bring still further changes in both prices and wages, and for this reason most industries are moving slowly. This means idleness for some of the workers and the hardship that unemployment inevitably entails.

But the people must be fed and clothed, and foreign nations will be ready for American goods as soon as they are able to take them. While mills are shut down or running on part time the stocks of goods on hand are being used up and when these are exhausted there will have to be further production, which will mean good business and more of it. The question of prices and wages will amount to little so long as there is a fair balance between the two. It is for employers and employes to look the situation squarely in the face and to adjust themselves to the changed conditions.

There is no reason to doubt that all will come right in time, but this does not obscure the fact that just at present conditions are far from ideal. It is a time for patience, courage and the practice of economy all along the line, and for faith in the future. One extreme follows another. The present lull succeeds the feverish activity of the war period, but it will pass. The wheels of industry must and will turn again and there will be employment for all willing to work. Until that time comes the people must adapt themselves as best they can to the conditions that exist and stand prepared to meet prosperity half way at the first sign of its returning.

Alice Robertson, the only woman member of Congress, thinks there is not a woman in the United States qualified to sit as a delegate in the disarmament conference, and yet the suffragists are urging the appointment of at least one woman. The matter may be safely left in the hands of President Harding, who by his appointment of Senator Lodge shows that he knows something of the needs in the case.

In some parts of New England there was frost early in the week sufficient to do more or less damage to crops. It is a short time from freezing to freezing in this part of the country, yet the people manage to live, and to live pretty well, at that.

A stubborn fight against the corn borer is being waged by Maine and other New England states, and the battle cannot be too vigorous. The pest is one of the worst now threatening agriculture and must be kept out if such a thing is possible.

The season of agricultural fairs is again at hand, though it will not be under full headway until next month. But some of the early fairs have already been held and the indications are that those to come will be fully up to the standard.

Word comes from Washington that the government does not plan to pay the expenses of the foreign delegations to the disarmament conference. Will an appropriation of from $200,000 to $300,000 be necessary if it doesn't?

Building mechanics in some places are accepting wage reductions as a means of stimulating business in their line. It would seem to be a wise procedure.

A survey indicates that the New Hampshire apple crop will be rather light this year. And this at a time when apples are wanted as never before.

MANY TEETH COULD BE SAVED SAYS DENTIST

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 18.—More than 50 per cent of the teeth now being extracted could be saved by proper treatment, Dr. J. F. Biddle of the University of Pittsburg told the National Dental Association here today.

"Teeth are in many cases the source of bodily ailments and their extraction has in some instances resulted in cures which seem almost miraculous," Dr. Biddle said.

"However we must not lose sight of the fact that many times teeth are sacrificed with the hope of curing almost every disease known to science.

"Undoubtedly abscessed or pulpless teeth should not be permitted to remain in the mouth if they cannot be put in a healthy condition. On the other hand all teeth in which pulps have been removed should not be condemned."

Proper treatment with Dr. Biddle said would save half the teeth being pulled consisted of "infinite care on the part of the operator, strict observance of approved methods of sterilization, the verifying of results by the X-ray, and follow-up by examination and Xray at regular intervals."

LITERATURE

Roosevelt Cheers for Curwood.

The late Colonel Roosevelt was one of the many who admired James Oliver Curwood's vigorous out-of-door fiction, and it is said that a short time before he died he had planned to joint for a week in the north woods with the Michigan novelist.

The present Assistant Secretary of the Navy seems to be following in his father's footsteps in more ways than one. Because of his famous father's enthusiasm for Curwood's writings, the publishers sent Lt. Col. Roosevelt an advance copy of Curwood's new novel "The Flaming Forest," which has just been published. Here is what the present T. R. wrote back:

"Washington, July 29, 1921.

"My Dear Mr. Brown—I have read with great interest Mr. Curwood's book, 'The Flaming Forest.' It is excellent. It is good clean adventure in the 'open spaces.' I am thoroughly sick of the soul-searching obscenities of many of the modern novels. It is fashionable now to pile complex on reflex and lib until the reader becomes hopelessly lost in a maze of introspective speculations. Personally, I believe that action as a rule springs from simple motives. Mr. Curwood's book is a story of adventure, well told and robust.

"Believe me, very truly yours,

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

Seven "Bib League" Books This Year.

The modern authors whose books sell into the hundreds of thousands of copies can be counted on the fingers of your hands—with several fingers left over at that. The names include such big leaguers as Curwood, Gene Stratton Porter, Harold Bell Wright, Peter B. Kyne, Zane Grey, Sir Hall Caine, and, possibly, Ethel Dell. As a general rule not more than two or three of them are occupying the spotlight at the same time and it has been years since some of them were heard from.

But this year! Every last one of the group named is coming out with a brand new novel—in fact, most of them have actually struck the same month. Curwood's great new story called "The Flaming Forest" was published on August 10; Mrs. Porter's new novel is scheduled for the latter part of August; so is Harold Bell Wright's; and Sir Hall Caine's "Master of Men" makes a bow on August 29, both Ethel Dell, with her new book about "The Obstacle Race," and Peter B. Kyne, with his drama of the New West entitled "The Pride of Palomar," are due on September 24. Romantic winter ahead.

Not So Easy as It Sounds.

Lots of people used to think that ability to write was a whimsical donation from the gods which authorized the donee to loaf from then on. But the successful author of today don't think so. Competition's too keen. At the Columbia University Summer School this year there's a young woman from the West who is industriously studying the Chinese language. She is Emma-Lindsay Squier, a "new" writer whose series of short animal stories have been making a great hit in Good Housekeeping Magazine. Then why Chinese? With the editor, she has mapped out a series of Chink yarns for the same magazine, and after a high voltage course in the lingo she plans to visit the Orient for local color.

READ THE PRAYER OF A BUSINESS MAN

The following business man's prayer is published by J. H. Fenderson of Biddeford:

Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour; 16 ounces one pound and 100 cents 1 dollar.

Help me to live so that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience without a gun under my pillow, and unhaunted by the faces of those to whom I have brought pain.

Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square; and that in earning it I may not stick the staff where it does not belong.

Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and the rustle of unholy skirts.

Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me mine own.

Guide me so that each night when I look across the dinner table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal.

Keep me young enough to laugh with my children.

And when comes the smell of lowers and the tread of soft steps, and the crunching of wheels out in front, make the ceremony short, and the epitaph simple: "Here lies a man."

PLAYGROUND NOTES

Mary Pike and Julia O'Leary are the leaders in the race for points in the older girls' class in sports at the playground with Arlene Forbes and Alice Mullen leading in the younger girls' class.

Friday's sports:

Dash—Class 1, Arlene Forbes, first, Ruth Chandler, second, Alice Mullen, third; class 2, Mary Pike, first, Lena Hurnedy, second, Catherine Moynahan, third.

Obstacle race—Class 1, Arlene Forbes, first, Alice Mullen, second, Grace Weselhoff, third; class 2, Catherine Moynahan, first, Caroline Smith, second, Wilma Manly, third.

There will be a picnic Wednesday at Wallis Sands for the children who go to the playgrounds. Auto trucks will take them to the beach. Already over 160 children have signed up. Those who wish to go should give their names to the instructors before Tuesday. The outing will be in charge of the instructors and some of the mothers. The participants will bring picnic lunches.

CHANGING THE TIME

"Now don't forget to bear in mind,"
A thoughtful father said
"To change the household clocks an hour
Before we go to bed.
This daylight saving don't please me
I want old time, not new,
But folks who with the Romans live
Must do as Romans do."

When Susie's sweetheart came that night
The maiden to him said:
"Remind me when you go tonight
To put the clock ahead!"
Tom slyly thought "I'll fix it now;
I'll set the old clock back.
Then I can stay till one tonight,
For time I will not lack."

Grandmother said, "don't change my time,
I'll have it the old way.
I've had my old clock many years
He ticked on day by day."
The maid who wound the kitchen clock
Came from the pictures late.
And she forgot to wind—and see
That it got down at eight.

But father wound his nickle clock,
And set Big Ben ahead
And mother thoughtful did the same,
Before she went to bed.
And Susie moved the hands ahead
Upon the hall clocks face
Just after bidding Tom "good night,"
Then sought her resting place.

When waking from their sleep at morn
None knew the time of day
Ma called the maid and woke papa
Who dressed without delay.
And when Pa saw the varied time—
Said: "Clocks all on a strike.
Each time piece tells a different hour
None gives the time alike."

The reason why, papa soon learned
As each their part explained.
But the tall clock that Susie set
Showed not an hour gained.
And grandma said "the time is ours—
For loss, or gain each day,
And changing clocks will never save
The time if thrown away."

OBSEQUIES

Miss Julia A. Quinn

The funeral of Miss Julia A. Quinn was held this forenoon from the Church of the Immaculate Conception at eight-thirty o'clock, Rev. Father Hickett celebrating high mass of requiem and also officiated at the service at the grave. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The pall bearers were Charles Quinn, Michael Quinn, Joseph and Albert Quinn. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery under the direction of Undertaker William P. Miskell.

"That blowout made a terrible explosion." "Yes," replied Mrs. Chuggins. "But it didn't last long enough. Tires should be made so that when they burst the noise will last long enough to drown my husband's remarks."—Washington Star.

PRESS CONGRESS TO MEET AT HONOLULU

Columbia, Mo.—Twenty-three days in Hawaii, the "Paradise of the Pacific," twenty-three nights under enchanting Hawaiian skies, and the journeys preceding and following this fascinating visit, is the plan of the Transportation Committee of the Press Congress of the World as outlined here today by Will Wilke, the Committee's chairman.

In order that the most perfect accommodations for the delegates may be had, the Congress dates have been shifted a week and are now fixed at October 11 to 25. Delegates from Europe, the eastern and middle United States, and all western points not too far removed, will assemble at Chicago for the start on Sept. 25, and a special Press Congress train in two sections will carry the party from Chicago to San Francisco.

The route to the Pacific will be through Canada and the Northwest, with entertainment at cities along the way.

These tours' itinerary follows:

Leave Chicago Sunday, Sept. 25, 11 p. m. Arrive Minneapolis Monday, Sept. 26, 3.00 p. m. Leave Minneapolis 3.55 p. m. Arrive Winnipeg Tuesday, Sept. 27 10 a. m. Leave 5.00 p. m. Arrive Vancouver, Friday, Sept. 30, 10.00 a. m. Leave 11.45 p. m. Arrive Victoria, Saturday, Oct. 1, 7.00 a. m. Leave Victoria 4.30 p. m. Arrive Seattle, Saturday, Oct. 1, 9.30 p. m. Leave Sunday, Oct. 2, 12.01 a. m. Arrive Portland, Sunday, Oct. 2, 7.00 a. m. Leave Portland 11.59 p. m. Arrive San Francisco Tuesday, Oct. 4, 6.00 a. m.

The party will sail from San Francisco on the following schedule:

Group 1.—Leave San Francisco Tuesday, Oct. 4, 2.00 p. m. Arrive Honolulu, Monday, Oct. 10, 8.00 a. m.

Group 2—Leave San Francisco Wed. Oct. 5, 12.00 noon. Arrive Honolulu Tues., Oct. 11, 8.00 a. m.

Then will follow the 23 days of convention, business, and entertainment. Official, semi-official, and informal social affairs will dove-tail with outdoor entertainments and excursions to fill every minute of the journalists' stay.

The largest single item on their program, will be the two-day excursion to Hilo and the famous volcano which is one of the most striking of all Hawaii's natural wonders.

The main body of the delegates will leave Honolulu on the afternoon of November 2, arriving at San Francisco 5 p. m., Nov. 8. They will follow this schedule:

Leave San Francisco, Tuesday, Nov. 8, 8.00 p. m. Arrive Los Angeles, Wednesday, Nov. 9, 11.00 a. m. Leave Friday, Nov. 11, 11.00 p. m. Arrive Grand Canyon, Saturday, Nov. 12, 4.00 a. m. Leave 6.00 p. m. Arrive Albuquerque, Sunday, Nov. 13, 9.00 a. m. Leave 1.00 p. m. Arrive Santa Fe, Sunday, Nov. 13, 4.00 p. m. Leave 9.30 p. m. Arrive Kansas City, Monday, Nov. 14, 7.00 a. m. Leave 6.00 p. m. Arrive Chicago Tuesday, Nov. 16, 7.00 a. m.

Practically all the delegates from the Orient will sail for Honolulu on the Korea, leaving Yokohama, Oct. 1 and arriving at Honolulu Oct. 10.

This information comes from K. Sugihara, of Tokio, who represents the Transportation Committee in Japan.

The first delegates from Europe, traveling to Honolulu via England expect to sail on Sept. 3, although later boats will get them to New York in time to join the Congress party.

The Stefani and Rosta news agencies of Russia will send A. Hodoroff, who is now representing them in Peking, to Honolulu.

H. Achille Ricciardy, of the Mediterraneen Press, is an Italian journalist who will attend the Press Congress.

AMERICANS FORM FARM COLONY IN PERU

Lima, Peru.—A group of American farmers, comprising the advance guard of a colonization scheme said to involve more than 200 families from the western United States, arrived here recently enroute to the Pampa del Sacramento valley along the eastern head waters of the Amazon river, in northern Peru, where the colony is to be established.

The party is in charge of J. B. Schoenfelt, of Dunkuigee, Okla., formerly United States Indian agent for Oklahoma territory, who obtained, for colonization purposes, a grant of 650,000 acres of agricultural and forestry lands from the Peruvian government last October.

After the preliminary location of the lands in the concession is completed, it is planned to bring the remaining colonists, numbering about 800, to the settlement via Para, Brazil, and the Amazon and Ucayali rivers. The former is navigable from its mouth on the Atlantic ocean to Iquitos, Peru, about 2,000 miles.

In an interview published in the West Coast Leader, Mr. Schoenfelt said that, owing to drouth and crop failure, a number of farmers in the central west had expressed their desire to seek more fertile and profitable fields.

"I decided to look over South America," he said, "since most of the American government's desirable vacant lands, that could be obtained at a low price, have been allotted to foreign immigrants. The colonists, who are chiefly from the west, are farmers of some means and they can secure their farms at a cost of a few cents per acre simple to their lands, as soon as 200 families have been settled on the concession."

About half of the tract, according to Mr. Schoenfelt, consists of grassy plains, rolling hill land and valley. The remainder has forests. The land is said to be suitable for producing all kinds of agricultural products, especially sugar, cacao, cotton, jute, indigo, and tobacco. The farms will be divided into tracts of from 500 to 5000 acres with an average of about 1000 acres for each family.

ARGENTINA WELCOMING IMMIGRANTS

Buenos Aires.—While the United States is decreasing the number of immigrants admitted into the country, Argentina, with thousands of fertile acres that have never felt a plow, is welcoming them with open arms, and is even feeding and lodging them while helping them to find employment.

After setting foot in Argentina the immigrant is welcomed into a spotless comfortable hotel where, in addition to being supplied free of charge with every personal necessity and convenience, he is taught by means of motion pictures and lectures something of the new land in which he is to make his home and is aided, when possible, to find employment. On deciding upon his destination within the country, the immigrant is supplied with free transportation to that place.

While the majority of immigrants arriving in the country are Spaniards and Italians, Germans are now arriving, together with some from other countries. Although the Germans come here third-class on account of the low value of the mark, many of them are skilled workers and even professional men. They bring with them quantities of machinery and equipment with which to start their new life.

NEW AMERICAN SCHOOL IN CHINA

Shanghai, Aug. 17.—Plans were taking form through the summer in Shanghai to open a campaign in the fall to raise a fund Taels 150,000 to begin work on the erection of the first buildings of a new American school. These first structures consisting of a classroom building and a dormitory and the ground will cost approximately Taels 467,000, or about $330,000 in gold. Of the Taels 467,000 required, Taels 324,000 have been raised. Taels 167,000 having been given in a campaign for funds held in Shanghai last year and gold 150,000 having been contributed by Mission Boards in the United States.

It has been planned to make the new school a center of American community life in Shanghai. The site that has been selected is a tract of about 17 acres located admirably in the French Concession.

The American School in Shanghai originally was founded by the various American missions in 1912, being housed in a number of dwellings in the northern part of the city. In the school year just closed 219 pupils were cared for and the facilities of the institution were taxed to the utmost to provide for all applicants. The school now provides eight years of school work and four years of high school. A class of ten was graduated this year.

While under control of missions in Shanghai the school has always been open to Americans generally. A change to be made in connection with the new project is that the new institution will be governed by a board of managers of whom half will be appointed by the different missions and half by representatives of the business community.

ENGLISH AS IT SOUNDS

Here is a singular incident showing how easy it is to misinterpret an overheard remark. Said Mrs. A, one of the over-hearers, "They must have been to the zoo, because I heard her mention 'a trained deer.'"

Said Mrs. B, "No, no. They were talking about going away and she said to him, 'Find out about the train, dear.'"

Said Mrs. C: "I think you are both wrong. It seemed to me they were discussing music, for she said: 'A trained ear' very distinctly."

A few minutes later the lady herself appeared and they told her of their disagreement.

"Well," she laughed, "it's certainly funny. You are poor guessers, all of you. The fact is, I'd been out to the country over night and was asking my husband if it rained here last evening."

About 11 years ago a swarm of bees got into the home of F. E. Aldrich of Guilford, Me., through an opening in the casing of an attic window. Efforts to dispossess them proved futile until Amos Debino and F. H. Orff, experienced bee handlers, tackle the job one day last week. They smoked out the bees and delivered to Mr. Aldrich more than a washtubful of honey.

PORTSMOUTH'S TREASURES

Guard your treasures well, old Portsmouth,
Which you have and now possess,
Let the luster of your history
Never tarnish or grow less.
You have places and the houses
Which our Nation's history made
Grand, sublime—of famous lineage,
Where the noblest ones have staid.

Let us hold and dearly cherish,
May the heart forevermore
Love the deeds of truth and valor
From the past's resplendent store.
Many things are surely hidden—
Often in enchanted walls,
Which cast their influence about us,
From the doorways of these halls.

People of all countries visit
Where our Washington did sit,
In those rooms by memories hallowed
By the side of Lafayette;
Came they then through land and nation
Meeting in the famous town
And we hold the recollection
Where they all have gathered round.

Enter through the quiet doorways,
Step within and look around,
Old and venerable they're standing—
You are treading o'er the ground
Where the footsteps of the loved ones,
As they walked so long ago,
Came to make fraternal visits
Giving blessings as they go.

Forms of noble men about us,
Smiles on woman's queenly face,
Gone, but still the fading picture
Things within the dear old place.
Guard the houses and protect them;
And let no relentless hand
Touch one nail or sacred fragment
Of their portals, dear and grand.

WENTWORTH CUP WON BY BOWDEN

The annual autumn competition for the Wentworth Hotel Golf championship was won this morning by Mr. Bowden who defeated Mr. McQuillan 1 up and 2 to play. Mr. McQuillan played a most excellent game throughout and was watched by a large gallery. This is the second year that the golfers have met. Last year Mr. Bowden was also the winner.

Mrs. Eliot of Philadelphia defeated Mrs. Childs of New Orleans for the woman's championship.

In the defeated $ Mr. Dimick and Mr. Gregg tied. This was due to a penalized stroke and will be played off Monday.

In the second flight Dr. Bell defeated H. H. Beckwith. The tournament has been in progress for several days and has been one of the events of the season. The course is in perfect condition and the weather could not be improved on.

A small church in the Bronx, New York, which is about to expand, recently held an entertainment, the admission to be paid in building bricks as follows: One brick, standing room; two bricks, all seats but the first five rows; and three bricks, the seats in the front five rows. In addition, two bags of cement, some lumber and a quantity of lime and plaster. 608 bricks were collected.

THREE PEDESTRIANS INJURED

Portland, Aug. 19.—Three pedestrians were injured today when an automobile driven by Miss Ebla Vikre of Winthrop, Mass., charged upon a Congress street sidewalk near Monument Square and smashed a show window in a hardware store. Peter J. Rafferty and Joseph Young, who were crushed against the building, were taken to a hospital, suffering with serious injuries. The car had six occupants, bound to Woodsend for a vacation. None of them was hurt.

SECOND STRAWBERRY CROP AT WESTFIELD

Westfield.—Continued hot weather has made possible a second crop of strawberries in this section. A few of the baskets have found their way into the market. At the Coughlin farm in Wylien, several baskets of berries have been picked and have been placed on the market at 50 cents a basket. Mrs. W. S. Ayers, wife of the pastor of the Baptist church here, picked a pint of berries in the garden in the rear of the church parsonage in Holland avenue. Other strawberry raisers have found evidences of a ripening second crop on their plants.

MOODY CHOSEN TO HEAD MIDDLEBURY

Middlebury, Vt., Aug. 20.—The Rev. Paul Dwight Moody, youngest son of the late Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist, Friday was elected president of Middlebury College. He succeeds President John M. Thomas who resigned after 13 years to become president of Pennsylvania State College.

The new president is at present associate pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York. He served overseas as a chaplain of the 26th division and later was appointed by Gen. Pershing assistant to Bishop Brent, senior chaplain of the American expeditionary forces, succeeding Bishop Brent on his retirement. He was decorated by the French government.

Mr. Moody was born in Baltimore April 11, 1879, and after his graduation from Yale in 1901 studied in Scotland and at the Hartford Theological Seminary. After his ordination in 1912 he became pastor of the Congregational Church at St. Johnsbury where he remained until he went overseas with the New England troops. At the close of the war he became associate pastor of the Madison Avenue Church.

OBITUARY

Dr. W. B. Kennisten

The death of Dr. W. B. Kennisten, one of Exeter's best known physicians occurred Thursday at his former home in Skowhegan, Me., and came as a shock to his many friends, as he was apparently in perfect health. Death was due to angina pectoris. His age was 51 years.

Dr. Kennisten had but a few days previous left with his family for a vacation trip to visit at his old home and at Skowhegan, Me. He had for many years been a physician with a large practice here and in the neighboring towns. He came to Exeter in 1886 from his home in Boothbay, Me., at the age of 16 years to enter the Phillips Exeter academy, from which he was graduated with the class of 1889. Later he took a course at Howdoin, receiving his M. D. degree in 1892.

Soon afterwards he came to Exeter, where he built up a large practice. Dr. Kennisten was one of the active alumni of the academy, and conducted the fraternity house for one of the academy societies on Front street.

He is survived by a widow and four children. The funeral is to be held on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock from his late home.

PAYS VOWS MADE DURING ILLNESS OF HUSBAND

Lisbon.—A curious sight was witnessed in the streets of Lisbon just after dawn recently. Maria Concelano, wife of a workman, was seen dragging herself painfully on her knees from her house through the busy streets of the Church of Our Lady of Health, thus carrying out a vow made during the illness of her husband, in case of his recovery.

The distance from her house to the church was over two miles and long before she had accomplished one-half of her pilgrimage, her knees were torn by the stones and her dress was stained with blood.

Maria's husband, a young fireman, fell seriously ill about six months ago and was given up by the doctors. His devoted wife tended him with untiring care and love and when it was thought that he was dying she prayed for a miracle that should save his life, making a vow that if he recovered she would go on her knees, as a sign of thanksgiving, to the shrine of The Lady of Health.

The husband recovered and the wife has fulfilled her vow.

ILLINOIS LEADS IN WOMEN PREACHERS

Decatur, Ill.—Since the first woman preacher of the Disciples of Christ (Christian church) was ordained forty seven years ago, their number has grown slowly but steadily until now nearly one hundred of their preachers are women. This announcement is made by the Superintendent of Women Preachers, Rev. Mrs. Jessie Coleman Monser, of Decatur, who has just rounded out her thirtieth year in the ministry.

Illinois, according to Mrs. Monser leads in the number of women preachers of the denomination, and boasts the oldest among them, Rev. Mrs. C. C. Babcock of Erie, Ill. There are fifteen in the state. Kansas has eight, the next largest number.

Success and growth of the women preachers organization, Mrs. Monser said is slow "since women, even business and public leaders, are slow to organize and do not seem to see the need of cooperation. Women manage their 'own' homes and in business life this tendency still exists."

NAPOLEON'S TOMB IN BAD STATE

London.—Napoleon's original tomb on St. Helena has fallen into a sad state of disrepair since the body was removed in state to the Invalides in Paris 81 years ago, according to a letter received by Sir Lees Knowles, a former cabinet minister, from a recent visitor to that remote island.

"I walked the five and one-half miles uphill to Longwood, Napoleon's old home," the writer says, "and inspected his much neglected tomb which is down in a deep corner of a deep valley—just a slab covered with dirty whitewash—no inscription whatever. The grass around was unkept, and surrounded by a circle, about 20 paces in diameter, of tall trees, and there was nothing anywhere to tell a visitor when the body was removed, or to whom the old tomb had belonged."

W. C. T. U. AFTER ONE MILLION MEMBERS

San Francisco, Aug. 19.—The raising of a Million Dollar fund and the gaining of a Million Members for the purpose of carrying out the big program of service for law enforcement, world prohibition, Child Welfare, Americanization, Social Morality, Christian Citizenship, Women in Industry and Scientific Temperance Instruction, were the Jubilee objectives stressed by Mrs. Frances P. Parks, National Corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Margaret C. Munns, National treasurer, at the opening session of the National W. C. T. U. convention meeting here Thursday.

MASQUE BALL GIVEN BY WENTWORTH HOTEL EMPLOYES

The annual masquerade ball given by the employees of the Wentworth Hotel, New Castle, last evening proved a big success and nearly two hundred were in costume. Through the courtesy of Manager John P. Tilton the committee was given the use of the ball room and music was furnished by the orchestra of the hotel.

The costumes were elaborate, unique and some made pronounced hits. There were elaborate prizes given for the most original costume, for the most elaborate, and the most grotesque. The guests at the hotel took no little interest in the affair and contributed about three hundred dollars for the prizes, etc.

General Winthrop returned to his summer villa by the sea and his arrival attracted much attention, stepping at the front piazza in a sedate and antique stage coach, accompanied by his faithful servant.

A telegram, supposed to be from President Harding announced the return of General Wentworth and the entire number of guests at the hotel gathered o the piazza to extend to him a hearty welcome.

W. H. Cusick of Boston was chairman of the entire arrangements, assisted by George Thornton, Helen McDonough, Clarence Hoyt, Leo King, Katherine Maher, Ruth Kines, Mrs. Peterson, Lillian Tschoner, John Cousins, Elizabeth Braithwaite, Ethel Polky, Gorge Hanlon.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS ARE GIVEN FINE

Paris—A Rouen court has condemned a football player to four months in prison and to pay a fine of 6,000 francs for injuring another player during a match. This is the first time such a sentence has been delivered in France and if the judgment is held on appeal, it is believed in sporting circles that it will have a lasting effect on sports, as players will hesitate to risk going to prison for a game.

The Olympic Club of Paris was playing the Rouen Club (Association) and during the first half Aymard (Rouen) had to leave the ground on account of an injury to his eye after a collision with the international player, Langenove, (Olympic.) The day was very foggy and only two or three players could see what really happened.

The Rouen Club lodged a complaint with the French Football Federation which found it impossible to obtain proof of misconduct against Langenove. Aymard then sued Langenove before the Rouen courts and the foregoing judgment was given by default. French courts always give the maximum penalty when they condemn any one who does not appear for trial, but the sentence may be changed if the condemned man takes the case to appeal.

Langenove says he never received a summons to appear before the court. He was a student at St. Cyr Military College when the match was played, and was in garrison at Mayence when the case was heard. When he charged Aymard, the latter said: "It wasn't decent to charge me like that." Langenove said, "There is no truth in the accusation that I struck him with my fist."

ESTABLISH AVIATION LANDING STATION AT OLD ORCHARD

The town of Old Orchard is the first summer resort town to establish an aviation landing station in compliance with a law passed at the last session of the Legislature.

The selectmen decided that a stretch of beach in front of the bungalows would be the best place for such a landing place, and at a meeting held last week, set apart a strip at that point, which is just this side of the Zbyszko cottage. This is some distance from the pier and not directly in front of any cottage.

Aeroplanes from out of town can use this station as a landing place. There are however only a few who come to this resort from other cities. The airship there makes daily flights, carrying passengers for a short air flight, with the result that during the summer months the station will be in consan use.

The selectmen have issued the following notice:

The subscribers, the selectmen of Old Orchard upon the application of Harry M. Jones of Old Orchard, who has applied to us for a designated place of landing for his aircraft—under Chapter 161 of the Public Laws of Maine entitled and act to regulate the use of aircraft hereby lay out said landing place as follows; and hereby give public notice thereof of such laying out.

Said landing place is hereby designated by using the extension of the south easterly side of River street (so-called) and shown on a plan of lots by M. H. Kinney, said side line to be extended from its terminal on said plan across the beach to the water; said line to be the easterly line of said landing place, the westerly line of said landing place to be a line ascertained by the extension of the south westerly side line of land of John Lyons heirs, which line shall be extended to the water.

SUMMARY OF SUNSET LEAGUE

Next week will see the close of the Sunset League (weather permitting) which from all points of view has been on a par with other seasons. The fact that Fort team made such a poor showing and after losing 12 games dropped out of the race, the interest and attendance was not crippled to any great extent.

The outlook at the close of this week looks most favorable for the P. A. C. to carry off the honors. With but one game to play, (the Legion) on Monday, a win for them means the championship.

The Legion on the other hands faces all three teams in the four final games of the schedule, and they must win them all to even tie with the Athletics, quite an undertaking. The Legion benefitted somewhat when the Fort aggregation dropped out as they were given by forfeit three wins which, if played, might not have resulted in all victories.

The Hovey Post plays two consecutive games(Tuesday and Wednesday) and the Legion likewise (Wednesday and Thursday) and some strenuous work is looked for. In case of postponement of Monday's game (P. A. C. vs. Legion) the interest will likely keep going through out the week, in fact till the final game of the entire schedule.

UNION SUED BY LYNN SHOE FIRM

A suit in equity against the officers and members of the United Shoe Workers of America and its Cutters Local 62 has been filed by the Joseph I. Melanson & Brothers Shoe Company of Lynn.

In it the court is asked to make an accounting of damages said to have been sustained through two alleged union violations of a peace agreement between manufacturers and workers.

The Melanson Company also asks the court to order the union to pay damages according to the court's accounting.

The refusal of the local union to submit to arbitration a dispute over the discharge of last October of two cutters is alleged as one violation of the agreement, and "concerted cessation of work" by the cutting room staff in connection with the discharge of the men is charged as another.

GOV. BAXTER TURNS TO PUBLIC FOR DECISION

Augusta, Me., Aug. 19.—The issue between Gov. Baxter and the executive council over confirmation of the nomination of Howard Davies of Yarmouth for chairman of the public utilities commission, which he has made for four times, has been left to "public sentiment" for a decision.

"The people will determine who is right, the council, or myself," Gov. Baxter said in a statement today. "I unhesitatingly leave this issue to be decided by public sentiment, the tribunal before which all public servants are called for judgment.

"The councillors have made a definite statement to me that they will never confirm Mr. Davies or make a public statement of their position. This being so, nothing can be accomplished by further renominations."

CONSCIENCE STRICKEN MOTHER PAYS RAILROAD

New York, Aug. 19.—A conscience-stricken mother who, in 1918, travelled from New York to Chicago with a child between 5 and 12 years old for whom she paid no fare, has just sent a money order for $9.65 to J. F. Shinn, general passenger agent of the Erie Railroad here.

Desiring to clear her mind of "the wrongful act," the woman told her pastor, the Rev. W. S. Hitchcock of Negaunee, Mich., and asked him to ascertain the amount due the railroad, with interest. This was done and the amount was forwarded and acknowledged by W. J. Moody, treasurer of the company.

RUSSIAN FACTORIES ON PIECE WORK

Riga, Latvia.—Many experiments are being introduced in the management and supply system of Russian factories in an effort by the Bolshevik government to increase production in order to obtain products to exchange with the peasants for food.

Some time ago a piece work scale was introduced in the hope that this would incite individual workmen to increased efforts. According to a Moscow dispatch, all factory managements have been ordered to carry it into effect urgently and immediately.

In many industrial concerns a collective rationing plan has been substituted for the old system of granting individual rations. Under the new method a whole factory is granted a monthly allowance of foodstuff and money on the condition that it turns out a stipulated amount of goods.

If the factory is able to produce this quantity with a smaller number of workmen than estimated, the surplus of foodstuffs and money can be distributed among the workmen as a premium.

The All-Russian Council of Trade Unions has issued a circular pointing out that increases of wages in money payments are inadvisable at this time because this would necessitate an increase in the output of currency which the government is even now unable to print in sufficient quantities. The government is said to have been printing until lately about 200,000,000,000 of rubles of paper money a month. This amount has been increased to the maximum possible output of the printing machines.

BRITISH TRADE MISSION FOR MOSCOW

London.—A British trade mission of 17 members, headed by R. M. Hodgson formerly British consul at Vladivostok, has left London for Moscow, where quarters have been secured to house them.

They took with them six weeks' food supply, and large stores of office and household furniture including tables, brooms, pails, dusters and even pens and ink.

"We don't know what may happen to us," said Mr. Hodgson to a reporter, "so we are going prepared. We are taking two cars, in case we find the railways on strike or the track blown up, but we are not carrying any arms.

HOVEY POST ELIMINATE NAVY YARD FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

SUNSET LEAGUE STANDING

P. A. C.	14	5	.737
Legion	11	6	.653
Navy Yard	11	7	.611
Hovey Post	10	8	.555
Fort	0	20	.000

The Hovey Post eliminated the Navy Yard team from any chance to figure in the League Championship on Friday evening. With only one more game to play the P. A. C. take the championship if they win the game or if the Legion drops one of the three games they have to play. The Legion have three games one with the P. A. C., and one each with the Navy Yard and Hovey Post, if they win all three games they will then be in a tie with the P. A. C. for first place, if they lose a game the P. A. C. win, no matter if they drop their last game. The Navy Yard have lost seven games and are out of the running, as is the Hovey Post. Each gave two games to play and they will battle for position. It has been a close finish and has produced some very fine baseball. The remaining games will be played next week when the league closes. Had the Navy Yard won their game last evening they would have an equal chance with the Legion to finish in a tie with the P. A. C.

It was a tough game for Driscoll to lose, as he allowed but two hits, both in the first inning, but with a base on balls they produced a run. The Veterans scored two runs in the third by some fast base running and two errors on the part of the Navy Yard players. Gamester pitched a good game for the Veterans although he was reached for four hits one a three base blow which scored their only run. While his support was ragged at times he managed to pull out of several tight holes, the Navy Yard having men on bases in all four innings.

The Hovey Post scored one run in the opening inning, McNally hit for a single over second, Estabrook walked, Gibson single through short and McNally scored. Woods was fanned, Hurley was tossed out by Driscoll and Parker fanned.

Hillenboter singled through short but he was thrown out trying to steal second. McWilliam fanned, Smith was hit, but he was forced at second by Smith.

Driscoll made short work of the Veterans in the second striking out Sullivan, forcing Gustafson to fly to Musil and Gamester was retired by McNally.

Boeckle was safe when Estabrook made a bad heave to first, he stole second went to third after Dugan had hit a long fly to Gustafson in right, but he was nicked trying to score on Gorman's ground ball to Estabrook being run down between third and home. Waite flied to Estabrook.

The Veterans scored two runs in the third without a hit. McNally gets thru to first when Boeckle's throw pulled Waite from the bag. Estabrook was hit advancing McNally. Gibson popped to Driscoll. Woods struck out, Hurley hit to Boeckle who threw to first but Waite lost the ball and McNally scored. Hurley and Estabrook united in a double steal the latter scoring. Parker then fanned.

Driscoll struck out and Hillenboter was tossed out by Gamester. McWilliams singled to center and stole second and went to third on Hurley's over throw and he scored on Smith's fluke base hit to right. Musil flied to Estabrook.

It was a quick curtain for the Veterans in the fourth Sullivan striking out, Gustafson was thrown out by Driscoll and Gamester hit to Waite.

After Estabrook had retired Boeckle Dugan singled to center Gorman flied to Sullivan who dropped the ball, but with two men on, Sullivan fanned and Driscoll flied to Woods.

The score:

JAPANESE DISCOVERY IN IRON ORE

Tokio, Aug. 19—A new process by which sand-iron or magnetic sand, may be converted into pig iron and thence into steel, has been made public by Gorn Matsukata and Dr. Azomi Naito. The discovery, the scientist prayer, will revolutionize the steel industry in Japan, and in the world. The process is carried out by means of combining the sand-iron with coke, using hot gas flames and making ferro-coke, from which iron easily can be taken.

Japan has little or no iron in any form which may be mined easily, and this fact has made this country one of the biggest importers of iron, especially from England and the United States. Magnetic sand is abundant throughout the empire. The discoveries claim that the new process will make Japan one of the biggest iron producing countries of the world.

CIGARETTE OUTPUT ENORMOUS

Washington, Aug. 19—Cigarette numbering 61,859,000,000 were manufactured in the United States, last year the Consug Bureau's annual tobacco report, issued today, shows. Of that number 15,831,000,000 were exported, leaving about 46,000,000,000 factory-made cigarettes for consumption in the United States. Cigars manufactured numbered 8,720,754,000 and tobacco manufactured, including chewing and smoking and snuff, totalled 113,591,000 pounds.

TRIBUTE PAID TO POET AND SOLDIER HERO SON

A double tribute was paid to the memory of the late poet, Sam Walter Foss, and his soldier hero son, Saxton C. Foss on Thursday at Candia at the semi annual reunion of the Candia Club which the late poet organized and was its first president. It was a tribute to the poet, who derived his early inspiration from the New Hampshire country side, but first and foremost, to the memory of his son, Saxton Conant Foss, World War hero and D. S. C. man, who gave up his life in France.

The Boston Globe of Friday's issue contains a cut of the late Saxton C. Foss and his mother and sister of Somerville, Mass., and aunt, Miss Ethel L. Foss of this city, and a large group of friends of the late poet and his hero son, who attended the memorial exercises.

As Portsmouth was the boyhood home of the poet and both he and his son had many acquaintances here the dedicatory exercises at Candia have no little local interest, in referring to the gathering, the Boston Globe says:

"In a little green park by a quiet country road, opposite the old homestead, where the late Sam Walter Foss, New England bard, was both friends and admirers paid a double tribute on Thursday.

"In the park there are two memorials, and about these the exercises centered. One is a granite monument, erected in honor of Sam Walter Foss, the father. Underneath this monument lies a box containing five volumes of his poems. The other memorial is a maple tree, recently planted in honor of the son, who added luster to the family name when on Oct. 3, 1918, in the Champagne sector, he volunteered, unassisted, to flank a German machine gun nest and fell, mortally wounded.

"An incident of the gallant young soldier's death, hitherto not generally known, was explained to the gathering today by Senior Vice Commander-in-Chief George A. Hosley of the G. A. R who in his oration set forth the last chapter in Foss' life in the following words:

"Engaged in the mopping up of machine-gun nests, the most hazardous of all undertakings, in a V-salient, wounded by an enfilading fire, he fell at last upon the crimson fields of France, and, when his life blood was fast ebbing away, he prayed he might live to see the colors of his gallant 9th push through in triumph.

"His dying wish was gratified, and then, his last sacrifice made, his life work done, Saxton Conant Foss joined his comrades on the further shore."

The reference to the "gallant 9th" was to the 9th Regular Infantry, 2d Division, in which, seeking no preferment, he enlisted at the very outset and in which, a private in the ranks, he fought over many battlefields.

Foss was graduated from the Somerville Latin School in 1906, and from Harvard in 1910. He entered the newspaper field in the office of the Somerville Journal, whence he went to the Christian Science Monitor. Later he became a member of the staff of the Boston Globe.

His mother, Mrs. Sam Walter Foss, and his sister, Miss Mollie Foss, came to Candia Wednesday night for the exercises from Somerville, where they have lived for many years, and where Sam Walter Foss was librarian of the Public Library.

The exercises were under the auspices of the Candia Club, an organization of Sam Walter Foss' boyhood friends, which has been active in perpetuating his memory.

Out-of-town members arrived on Wednesday evening and Thursday morning by train and automobile. There were a number present from Somerville, including Acting Commander Arthur R. Baxter and Sergeant-at-Arms Harry E. Lufkin of Somerville Post 19, American Legion.

A detachment of 17 comrades from Lester W. Chase Post, 9, A. L. of Derry, N. H., under command of Vice Commander Edwin S. Holden, motored across country. They fired a volley at the conclusion of the exercises and Buglers James Martin and John Taylor sounded "Taps." Most of the 17 wore the steel helmets which protected them overseas, and several of the boys were in the same division with which Foss served.

Long before 10.30 a. m. the hour set for the speaking Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Brown, present occupants of the old Foss home, were busy receiving visitors under the trees on the front lawn.

William B. Cinderhill of Chester, president of the Candia Club, introduced the speakers from a point conveniently near the monument and the memorial tree. Over their heads was the flag at half staff.

Rev. F. T. Alger of the First Church of Candia offered prayer, and Vice Commander-in-Chief Hosley delivered the oration. He said in part:

"Every year, when springtime comes the Nation repairs to its holy shrines and lovingly lays there its wreaths of laurels and flowers. Every few days to one of these cemeteries are being some of our boys of the World War brought from the fields of France and on the hillside, near the northeast gate, in full view of the great amphitheatre, overlooking the Potomac, are laid the caskets banked with flowers.

"In the same spirit we gather here today to pay tribute and dedicate this tree, so far as we can dedicate it, to the memory of Saxton Conant Foss, private in Co. F, 9th Regular Infantry, 2d Division.

"It is for us to dedicate ourselves to the splendid spirit manifested by the men who made the supreme sacrifice and, in our thoughts and actions, to see that their hopes and aspirations are fulfilled, as Americans should fulfill the duties which come to every one of us.

"Brave, noble, patriotic—characteristics that he inherited from his distinguished father—Saxton Foss responded to the first call to arms.

"In the years to come, when this tree shall have grown and its branches shall have broadened and intertwined, under it will play the little children of another generation, and strangers passing by may stop and rest beath its shade. Then, as the gentle breeze springs up and sways its broad boughs they may hear the rustle of the leaves seeming to whisper the name of Saxton Conant Foss."

George C. Hazelton of Washington, D. C., ex-Congressman from Wisconsin and former district attorney in the District of Columbia, a native of Chester, also spoke, and there was a recitation by Miss Bessie Smith Patten.

The service men raised their rifles and fired out over the stone wall which enclosed the little memorial park. Then one bugler standing by the tree, sounded "Taps" and the sweet strains came floating back again from the wooded valley across the road. The other bugler was concealed from view by the foliage.

Other exercises, in honor of Sam Walter Foss, were held by the Candia Club in the afternoon, and there was music by the Candia Orchestra.

OF NEW HAMPSHIRE SUED

Concord,—George H. Whitcher, Federal prohibition director for New Hampshire, was served with papers in a suit for $2500 damages brought by Henry A. Tarrant, owner of the Concord Press.

Tarrant says that he was one of a crowd of speculators at a recent raid by Whitcher, and his assistants on a Main street drug store and that Whitcher pushed him out of the way with a sharp blow and thus reopened an injury which is causing him suffering and incapacitating him for work.

That the codfish is carnivorous is shown by the fact that, in addition to the crustaceans, small fish and sea moss which it eats, all sorts of things have been found in it stomach, such as small seisors, corn cobs, rubber dolls and pieces of clothing.

BOYS AND GIRLS AT N. H. COLLEGE SPECIAL WEEK

Durham, N. H., Aug. 19—Though there were no end of features to the last day of Farmers' and Home-makers Week at New Hampshire College today, perhaps the outstanding one was the sudden doubling in numbers of the boys and girls. They came pouring into town from all sections of the state by the truck-load today and between 300 and 400 were present this morning in the gymnasium to greet the national leader, George E. Farrell, and to see the demonstration team from the Keene Boys' Club do its soil activity test work which earned for it yesterday the championship of the state. The Keene Boys' Team, which consists of Arthur Kingsbury, Everett Moore and Lorgan Barrett arranged a small chemical laboratory on a table in front of the audience and then and there illustrated the several best tests to establish the question of whether soil is solid or too much so.

The parade at 1 o'clock in the afternoon attracted a great deal of attention. Not only was there all the livestock which was seen in the parade on the first day, but the 300 or 400 boys and girls marched, there were automobiles representing various granges and a series of grange floats and floats of other cooperative organizations. The procession started from near the athletic field and passed by Morrill Hall, back of the college buildings and down the main street, along the front of the campus, past a temporary review stand opposite the Faculty Club House.

The day was called in the program the General Farmers' and Home-makers Day and the first morning meeting was in Morrill Hall, where George M. Putnam, President of the State Farm Bureau of Federation spoke. At another meeting in the afternoon Lloyd S. Tenny, Asst. Chief of U. S. Bureau of Markets, Dept. of Agriculture, spoke of the Farmers' Marketing Problems, and Freeman Tilden of Ludlow, Vt., author and farm specialist, discussed the Near Future of Farming.

At four o'clock in the afternoon there was another demonstration of farm machinery such as has been held each of the other three days of the week, and another ditch-blasting demonstration in the rear of the dairy barn.

Miss Lucille Brewer of Cornell University talked to the Home Demonstration Meeting this morning on Standards of Exhibits and Judging and she also spoke of the Club girls.

Senator James A. Tufts of Exeter, one of the college trustees and a member of the Phillips Exeter Academy faculty, welcomed the boys and girls today in the place of President Hetzel, who has been detained in Wisconsin.

CITATION

State of New Hampshire Rockingham, ss. COURT OF PROBATE

To all persons interested in the estate of Susan D. Flynn late of Portsmouth in said county, deceased, testate.

Whereas Nora E. Flynn the executrix of said acting as trustee under the will of said deceased has presented for allowance the first account of her administration upon the estate of said deceased.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Court of Probate, to be held at Portsmouth, in said County of Rockingham, on the sixth day of September A. D. 1921, at ten o'clock, in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be allowed.

And said executrix is ordered to serve this citation by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Portsmouth Herald, a newspaper published in Portsmouth, in said County, the last publication to be one week at least before said Court.

Witness, Louis C. Hoyt, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eleventh day of August A. D. 1921.

ROBERT SCOTT, Register.

WOMAN PLEADS TO DRIVING AUTO WHILE DRUNK

Boston, Aug. 19—Mrs. Katharine Marlow, aged twenty-eight, of 327 East 8th street, South Boston, was fined a total of $60 in the West Roxbury Court today by Judge Perkins on the charges of drunkenness and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. She appeared in court with a sprained right wrist, for which she had been treated at the City Hospital, following the crash of her automobile into a tree on Morton street, near Forest Hills street last night. She pleaded guilty to both charges and sentence was suspended to give her time to pay the fines.

The police say that she lost control of the machine when she struck a traffic sign and ran on the sidewalk, crashing into a tree. Thomas J. Healy of 16 K street, South Boston, her companion, was thrown from the machine and is at present at the City Hospital with a possible concussion of the brain and contusions of the body.

TO HONOR LOST FISHERMEN

Gloucester, mother of fishermen will honor the men of her fleet who have been lost at sea during the year by a special memorial service Sunday afternoon at 2.30 p. m. to be held under the auspices of the Gloucester Fishermen's Institute. The service, which has been established for several years, has become familiar to residents of the North Shore and annually attracts thousands who wish to witness the impressive spectacle and pay their measure of respect to the men who follow the hazardous occupation of the sea. Probably nowhere in the country is there anything like this memorial, which has been developed through years of experience into a ritual of great dignity and simplicity.

MISFORTUNE OF WAR

Budapest, Aug. 19—From field marshal to proprietor of a cigar store tells the story of Herman von Koeves's fortunes since the war. He was the last generalissimo of the Austro-Hungarian forces and had received the highest military citations for heroism in many battles, but he lost his entire property with a portion of Eastern Hungary was turned over to Roumania, according to the provisions of the Peace Treaty. His application for a license recently was granted by the Government. He will have the widow of a prominent lawyer who was killed by the Communists as his partner, and his son will be one of his clerks.

INSTITUTE GETS HAND OF PHAROAH'S DAUGHTER

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 20.—"The right mummy hand of Pharoah's daughter, who rescued Moses from the waters of the Nile," was left to Bradley Polytechnic Institute in the will of Mrs. Annie D. Petherbridge, filed yesterday for probate.

Mrs. Petherbridge was a well known Bible student and with her husband made several trips to the Holy Land. An ancient copy of the Bible, printed in Genoa in 1597 and known as the "Breeches Bible," also was left to the college.

SEES FINGERPRINTS, ADMITS BURGLARY

Springfield, Aug. 19.—Horace T. Smith, colored, of 114 Worthington street, detected by fingerprints left on a broken window pane, was arrested today and confessed to looting the wholesale jewelry and art goods store of F. M. Hudan of 216 Worthington street, Tuesday, Aug. 16. When confronted with the fingerprints, Smith admitted the robbery.

Stolen goods found in his room consisted of rings and several sets of pearl beads. Evidence was found that he has been conducting a lottery, according to the police. He had several hundred tickets in his possession.

S. A. PLANS BIG CAMP MEETING

Old Orchard Beach.—Preparations for the camp meetings to be given by the Salvation Army are under way at the ground. A mess tent to accommodate some 700 Salvationists will be erected on the grounds near the tabernacle, where the workers will be able to prepare their own meals. The meetings will open Saturday, August 20, and continue nine days.

August 28 Commander Evangeline Booth will be the speaker. At the opening meeting Commander and Mrs. Thomas Estill will be present and make addresses. He is in charge of the eastern territory of the army. Two bands, the National Staff Band of New York and the Provincial Staff Band of Boston will furnish music for the meetings. These musical organizations will give two band concerts at the pier each day.

The meetings will be the biggest ever attempted by the Salvation Army, as 200 officers and several thousand soldiers will be in attendance.

FINDS BARREL OF HOOCH IN AN ALLEY WAY

Bootleggers Had Evidently Been Doing a Rushing Business.

Numerous hooch birds in action in and around Water street on Friday night attracted the attention of Patrolman Michael Kelley, who did a good bit of detective work before the night was over.

Kelley was satisfied that a gang of bootleggers were dispensing hardware and he kept them on the run. Although he could not get them in real action. He finally located the distributing point when he ran on to a barrel loaded with full bottles, packed in straw, in an alley way off Jefferson street. He watched the hardware for some time but the sales for the day were over. No one came near the T. N. T. for an hour or so and he finally shipped the hooch to the police headquarters. Now of course nobody wants to claim the stock which amounts to a half dozen quarts or more.

NAVY YARD NOTES

Flag Incident Closed

The three sailors who hauled down the British flag at the Otter Cliffs Station, Bar Harbor, say they are sorry for their action and insist that they intended no insult, have been severely reprimanded by the Navy Department and allowed to return to duty. The three have been confined on board the U. S. S. Galveston at the Charlestown yard since they were brought down from Bar Harbor.

Good Showing

The last summary made by the Navy Yard Mutual Aid Association for the last half of the fiscal year shows the following:

Collections	$4,361.00
Sick Benefits paid	$2,802.01
Accident Benefits paid	$821.23
Death Benefits paid	$250.00
Total Benefits	$3,873.33
Overhead expenses	56.00
Total amount of cash on hand June 30, 1921	$3,793.67.

The report shows that the overhead expenses are extremely low and that the Association has made a good gain in cash balance. The sum of $19,271.91 has been paid out in benefits since the association was organized.

Assigned to Headquarters

The following warrant officers of the Marine Corps have been assigned to the headquarters at Washington: Pay Clerk J. D. Erwin, Pay Clerk E. J. Donnelly, Pay Clerk A. A. Zarracino, Pay Clerk F. R. Powers, Pay Clerk F. H. O'Neil.

The following have been appointed Assistant Quartermasters: Capt. W. C. Barnaby, Capt. O. C. Hine, Capt. J. J. Hughes, 1st Lieut. H. W. Whitney, Capt. C. F. Kleinst, Capt. J. P. Smith; 1st Lieut. H. F. Adams.

Will Be Communication Officer

Lieut. Comdr. J. C. Hilliard who recently reported at the yard, has been assigned to duty as assistant aid to the Commandant and communication officer. He will succeed Commander Doyle.

Ships All Ready

The four ships that are to be dry docked on Monday morning have all been set at the berth at the entrance of the dock.

Back From Long Cruise

Reginald A. Foss who has completed a cruise on the U. S. S. Dolphin to Mexico, West Indies, Central and South America, is passing a furlough at his home in Rye.

To Sell More Metal

The Supply Department will shortly offer for sale, two million pounds of ingot metal the product of the smelting plant at the local yard.

RAILROAD NOTES

Dropped Flagman

The B. & M. has dropped the flagman at Montrose Crossing on South Reading branch and the train crews are obliged to protect that crossing when arriving and leaving that station.

Must Be Dark Colored Ties

B. & M. trainmen in the passenger department have been reminded by recent notices that they must comply with the rule relative to the wearing of dark colored neckties.

His Seventieth Birthday

Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R., celebrated his seventieth birthday on Tuesday last with a family gathering at his home at Stockbridge, Mass.

Bill Clerk in Trouble

Walter M. Harmon, a billing clerk for the B. & M. at Biddeford, was arrested on Thursday in connection with the discounting of a number of notes in banks of that city and in Saco, some indorsers of which claim that their names were forged, was arraigned in the local police court yesterday morning.

Harmon, through his counsel, pleaded not guilty and waived a hearing. Probable cause was found and the respondent was bound over to the September term of the Grand Jury in the sum of $3600.

Saves Seven People

William R. Richardson, for two years crossing and gatetender for the Boston & Maine Railroad at the Church-street crossing in Winchester effected four more rescues of persons walking in front of approaching trains on Friday, making seven since last Saturday. Mr. Richardson is becoming disgusted with the carelessness of Winchester people and their apparent disregard for their own safety.

Last week a freight car was wrecked on the crossing and destroyed the gates. Mr. Richardson doesn't know the identity of the persons he saves from being killed or injured by pulling them from in front of approaching trains. He considers his rescues only a part of the day's work. Four pedestrians Friday walked directly in front of approaching trains in spite of his warnings, and his quick action in pulling them from the tracks saved possible fatalities. Twice Thursday and once Saturday he did the same thing.

Forty-One Years on Railroad

Examiner M. A. Randall of the Boston & Maine Railroad completed 41 years of continuous service on Friday and enters upon his 42nd year.

He came to Concord August 19, 1876 as train dispatcher for the Northern New Hampshire Railroad, and after two years was made chief train dispatcher and continued in that capacity until made examiner in 1913, which position he has filled since that time.

LOOK OVER THE BRIDGE

Railroad Officials Confer With Public Works on Sagamore Avenue Structure.

Division Engineer G. K. Thornton of the B. & M. railroad accompanied by Supervisors of Bridges and Buildings Mr. Coffin and Mr. Leavitt, were in this city on Friday on matters connected with the new Sagamore bridge proposition. The railroad men held a conference with the Board of Public Works and Supt. Smith and later visited the bridge and viewed the proposed new location. It is understood that the railroad section of the bridge is in good shape but the highway section needs attention as soon as possible.

The railroad men will make a report of their visit to other officials on their return to Boston.

It is estimated that the B. & M. are opposed to moving away from their part of the bridge just at present owing to the corporation's financial condition. It is estimated that the charges recommended in the approach and the construction of the bridge would cost the railroad about $5000. Following the visit to the Sagamore bridge the railroad officials viewed other property of the Portsmouth Electric Railway.

The local police court seems to have something to do every day and it keeps Judge Guptill and Clerk Shaw busy for an hour or more practically every day of the week. The police court is one of the departments of the city which is more than self supporting, in fact it is a money maker for the city.

NO BULL, BUT $2,300 FOR A COW

The sale of surplus Jersey stock at the Ayrdale Farm at Bangor was attended by many Jersey breeders and fanciers from as far west as Tennessee, and including Maine and Massachusetts stock raisers. The bidding was lively on many of the 60 head catalogued, and 53 were sold at prices ranging from $275 for a six months-old calf to $2,300 for Ayrdale, a champion butter producer, which went to the Pearson farm at Saco. The total sales amounted to $23,500.
